Packet Steamer Leaves Tuesday for Mounds, Ill., Under Her Own Steam.

The packet steamer, Ellipse, was floating on an even keel, with her hold free of water at 12 o'clock Monday noon. Eight steam pumps had been working 24 hours to pump the water out of her hold where she lay on the bottom of the Mississippi river at the foot of Beale avenue, with a hole in her port side, midway of the deck, 14 by 19 feet.

The craft is scheduled to start for Mounds City, Ill., to go on the dry dock, under her own steam, at 5 o'clock Tuesday morning. Just what the damage to her machinery, hull and lower deck works will be from the terrific flooding, no one knows.

The Ellipse has been lying in 18 feet of water, with a port list of 45 degrees. Since she went down, she has been busy constructing a bulkhead and repairing the hole in the hull. The hull has risen and will be out at 9 o'clock, the list to port being only some 10 degrees.

Memphis Territory Land Is Indorsed For Lane Colonies

Actuated by the desire to arouse interest in the Memphis territory in the passage of the national soldier settlement act, which was introduced in both houses of the congress on May 19, Frank Hayden, Memphis chairman of the Secretary Lane's soldier settlement committee, held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce at noon Monday.

It was attended by prominent Memphis business men, planters and lumbermen. Wilbur Nelson, secretary of the Tennessee soldier settlement board, recently named by Gov. Roberts, was present and announced that he would go to Washington Monday night to assist in putting the soldier settlement bill through.

Mr. Nelson is state geologist and has been in the possession of having 10,000 acres of land in the Memphis territory set aside as soldier settlement land. The other 25,000 acres are in the Arkansas bottoms of the Mississippi, 120 miles south of Memphis and about 25 miles from the Tennessee river. The land is owned by the Tallahatchie and the Lamb-Lamb lumber companies.

According to Mr. Hayden and Mr. Nelson, the land of the two tracts is entirely suitable for soldier settlement projects and should be accepted. They oppose the recent statement of H. T. Cory, consulting engineer of the department of the interior, in charge of the Southern soldier settlement district, that the tracts are unsuitable because of their not having sufficient levee protection.

"The levees protecting these tracts," stated Mr. Nelson, "are the result of the Mississippi. They are at least 50 per cent adequate. The tract in Mississippi has not been overflooded in over 10 years."

The Tennessee committee named by Gov. Roberts is composed of Dr. A. A. Morgan, Geo. A. Welch, W. R. Manire, Dr. F. M. Moore and Wilbur Nelson, secretary.

LORD CECIL POINTS OUT DANGERS TO LEAGUE
PARIS, June 2. (By the Associated Press.)—Referring to opposition in the United States to the league of nations, Lord Cecil, of the British peace commission, said today it would be deplorable if at the end of the peace conference the league of nations should be marred by the record of America in the war.

Lord Cecil, who is in Paris, said that it is suggested in some places that the United States should not accept membership in the league of nations because it might involve some sacrifice of national sovereignty. It would be foolish to deny that it is a sacrifice, but it is a sacrifice that is worth making.

Lord Cecil said that the United States should not be content to modify in some degree, however slight, its liberty of action. He said that the United States should be content to modify in some degree, however slight, its liberty of action.
